The Auditorium.

The feature picture for Thursday at the Auditorium is a dramatization of Victor Hugo's celebrated masterpiece, Les Misérables, depicting by accident the career of the noted character of fiction, Paul Valjean, and is entitled The Price of a Soul. This is one of the most powerful pieces of dramatic acting ever placed before a camera. This is the vehicle selected by the celebrated actor, James K. Hackett, to make his appearance in vaudeville under the title of The Bishop's Candlesticks. The Edison company went to great expense to insure a faithful reproduction of the original production. A screaming comedy picture is furnished in Room 1. Although the management was disappointed in the non-appearance of the acts originally booked, they nevertheless secured a very satisfactory show in the space of a few hours. Hogan and West substituted for Merrill and Norton in a very pleasing manner and have made a decided hit with their novel offering, The Sheath Gown Girl and the Bowery Boy. The comedy musical act presented by Robinson and Gaudin, a clever colored comedienne, is pleasing to all. Nan Evans entertains in a pleasing manner with her comedy character impersonations.

In the illustrated song line for the latter part of the week Miss Edwards will offer two very catchy songs in Blue Feather, one of the most beautifully illustrated songs ever put before the public, and the touching ballad, My Old Lady, which is one of Gus Edwards' latest successes and no doubt will appeal to all.

Daniel Sully in "The Matchmaker."

At the Broadway theater on Saturday, Sept. 4, matinee and night, Daniel Sully, the "natural actor," who scored such a brilliant success in "Father and Daughter" in the "Parish Priest," has found another big winner in the three-act comedy, "The Matchmaker," written for him by Jerome Sheppard, which will be presented in this city at the Broadway theater on the above date. "The Matchmaker" is the strongest

On Monday night, Sept. 4, at the Fort Edward, N. Y., the Bald Mountain to the home of a neighbor, tortured by asthma, bent on curing him with Dr. King's New Discovery, which had cured himself of asthma. This wonderful medicine soon relieved and quickly cured his neighbor. Later it cured his son's wife of a severe lung trouble. Millions believe it's the greatest throat and lung cure on earth. Coughs, colds, croup, hemorrhages and sore lungs are surely cured by it. Best for hay fever, grip and whooping cough. 50c and $1. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by The Lee & Osgood Co.

BREED THEATER.

The Heart of a Race Tout. Feature Motion Picture.

In the wonderful story of The Heart of a Race Tout is revealed one of the finest examples of a good samaritan that could be desired. A poor telegrapher that has just figured in a strike and hence is out of a job is about to be evicted from a cheap lodging house where his wife is ill in bed. The doctor arrives and leaves a prescription, but the husband is unable to get it, for lack of funds, but asking a neighbor to remain with the sick wife, he goes out to find some way of securing the medicine. He meets an old friend of his in the park, and, being known as Tim Bradley, the race tout, lives up to his name. This sportsy person is also without funds and together they concoct some clever schemes to secure funds for the sick wife, one of which is to prepare a mock suicide act to attract a crowd, and upon being questioned, they tell the truth and are given the common talk that is usually in up. With this the race tout starts for the race track and, placing his money on a sure tip, is successful and the large sum needed is carried to the afflicted home, the landlady receiving her rent and the neighbor left with the sick wife decides she needs a husband and promptly secures the race tout, and all are left rejoicing over their unexpected turn of good luck, which goes to show that even good may be found in the heart of a race tout.

A magnificent biograph picture is also shown, with the famous character appearing in a drama that is one of the most powerful sermons ever depicted. It is marvellously true to nature and the character of the person appears as familiar as possible. Two very clever comedy pictures are included in the programme, as well as other dramatic and unusual long bill of highly satisfactory pictures.

Miss Eileen Hazel, the new soprano at the Broad, will render as a solo, the song, "The Morning, a bright composition of great merit, later singing the illustrated song entitled Drifting, seen here this season.

LINCOLN PARK.

Rockets Tonight After the Show.

The fourth and last fireworks night of the season at Lincoln park will come tonight. It will be a night of rockets. The display is to commence when the show in Rustic theater is out. The evening performance, starting at 8.30, is almost always over at 9.40, and in this case the rockets, consuming about twenty minutes all told, should be seen by the way in time for people who wish to take the 10.15 car for the city.

In Rustic theater every act of the evening is well. Theatricals are no superior as a contortist, for he ties himself in an almost endless variety of knots. Camille, his partner, and a pretty woman in red, is good on the trapeze. Joe Burke makes all hands laugh tremendously when he sings "And His Day's Work Was Done." He also puts on a Highland-er's rig and sings a Scotch song after the style which has made so much fame and money for the $500 a night Harry Lauder. Stewart and Desmond's "Cohen the Cop" is a very laughable sketch and Cohen's songs, especially his parody on "I Remember You," all right. Musical Heub plays a dozen instruments and is master of them all. Hodges and Lauchman are always laugh raisers with their "Tomcat Serenade," which is particularly well liked by the young folks and the children, while plenty of people have been caught holding their sides during its production.

Like the casino, the shooting gallery and baseball alley will be open Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights for a while after the theater closes with Sunday afternoon's free concert. Business as usual on Broadway, range and at the alley continues good.

FOETRY.

THE QUESTION.

She went into the meadow and she pulled a wisp of grass. She took some luscious cherries from the tree. She wandered through the garden and she gathered her some. Some radishes, some spinach and she found a year-old bird's nest that was good enough for use. The nest itself was in it and all that. And then she pulled a carrot and a feather from a goose. Did she mean to make a salad or a hat?

She cut a sprig of parsley and a little spray of mint. She pulled a ripe tomato from the vine. Of what were her intentions she gave not the slightest hint. As whether she would garb herself or dine. She took a spray of lilac and a basket made of straw. She found upon the rubbish heap, and she filled with what she'd gathered. Did she mean to make a salad or a hat?

She threw them all together, just how-e'er they chanced to go. The lilac and the carrot and the parsley and the radish and the spinach and the tomato and the mint. She stirred them and she mixed them and she moved them north and south and east and west. And when she started out to do, The feather and the cherries and all that, She gazed upon it gladly as she held it. Did the woman have a salad or a hat?

—J. W. Foley, in the Saturday Evening Post.

FUN WITH A MOTORBOAT.

McWilliams owned a motorboat. The trimmest little thing afloat. He used to run the thing but found the cylinders must first be ground. The wheels he ground, the motor he leak. And once again he failed because the Sunday next he found his woe. The motor simply wouldn't go. And so he ground the cylinders to sight. The carburetor wasn't right. The lower part of the thing was tough. The lower part of the thing was tough. And when at last he got it going. McWilliams still smiles from age to age. It is the nearest thing afloat. He might as well have bought a duck. —Pearla Herald-Transcript.
